

Working In Teams & Heading Off Failure

Narrative Workshop Series

jkolko@wonderfulnarrative.com

If your projects fail, it will be due to lack of collaboration, poor communication, and inefficiencies in working process.

If your projects fail, it will be due to lack of collaboration, poor communication, and inefficiencies in working process.

It's a given that you will not always agree with one-another. The question is—what do you do about it?

Not always bad			Not always good
Division	Compromise	Consensus	Harmony
You disagree and cannot move forward.	You disagree, but flex enough to find common ground.	You generally agree, but not passionately.	You vehemently agree, and move forward without question.

A big part of being collaborative in creativity comes from the language you use to describe the things you make.

"My idea"

"Your idea"

"Our idea"

"The idea"

"An idea"

Trust is built on making commitments, and delivering on those promises.

- What will be done?
- How will it be done?
- At what level of detail will it be done?
- Who will do it?
- When will it be done?

Collaboration can't happen if you don't show up. Showing up isn't just being physically or digitally present.

- Are you there?
- Are you emotionally present?
- Are you excited to be there?
- Are you able to put aside outside concerns?
- Are you able to put aside your phone, social media, texts, and other distractions?

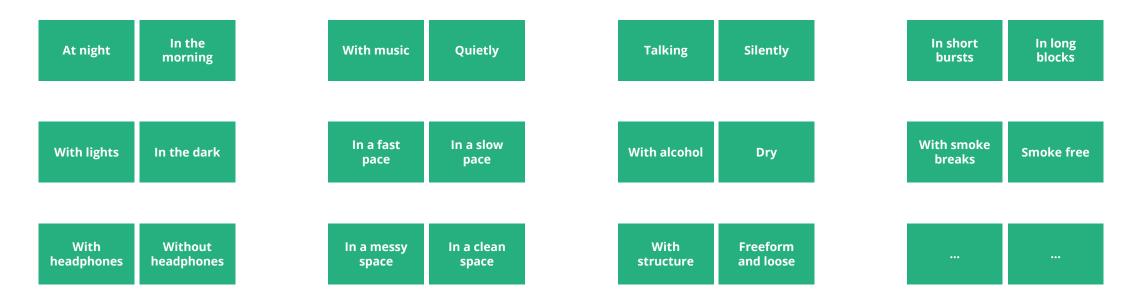

If your projects fail, it will be due to lack of collaboration, poor communication, and inefficiencies in working process.

A group needs a baseline set of accepted "rules" for communication.

- What times of day are appropriate for project discussion?
- What channels of communication should be used, and in what way?
- When is criticism allowed? When should it be eliminated?
- How direct can criticism be? What are examples?
- Who needs to be involved in various discussions?
- What will we do when we don't feel heard?
- What will we do when we are frustrated with someone else?

Communication is not just what we say—it's also in the way we share experiences.

I work best...

Problems need to be addressed head-on.

	Big problem
Small problem	Big consequences
Small consequences	0
Unemotional	Emotional
Easy solution	No solution
Support	Resentment

Taking breaks is key. But breaks don't just happen naturally. You have to prompt them.

"I need to take a break."

If your projects fail, it will be due to lack of collaboration, poor communication, and inefficiencies in working process.

Stop talking and make something.

When you make something...

- You work through complexity
- You solve problems and identify new problems
- You make a commitment
- You form a perspective
- You give shape to ideas
- You stop spinning

Use timeboxing to get everything done.

"We have 45 minutes to do this. After 45 minutes, we stop, no matter where we are."

Make a simple project plan, and then revise it as the project shifts and changes.
